Here's What Industry Does
for a City

The impact that the arrival of a new industry has on a town is remarkable when you look over the figures that the United States Chamber of Commerce's economic research department has come up with.

A fellow townsman read this in Business for May and handed me the extract. I am quoting:

"Here's the impact of new industry on local business:

Eleven-county study shows retail sales zoomed $375,000 in decade for every 100 new manufacturing employees added to the community.

Study covers widely scattered area, nonindustrial before World War II.

The figures:

Annual sales 10 years ago, $78,000; now, $108,000,000 (in terms of '40 dollars); manufacturing employment increase, 20,000.

Individual growth — per 100 workers — adds 338 to population, 117 new households, 172 employed persons, 62 school children.

It adds three new retail concerns, 165 new car registrations, 46 truck and bus registrations, 54 new residence telephones — per hundred.

Who shares in the retail sales boost?

Grocery stores add $70,000 for every 100 workers; eating and drinking places, $30,000; department, variety stores, $45,000; clothing, shoe stores, $30,000; auto dealers, $50,000; building material dealers, $20,000; others, $130,000.

Spotlight on Divorce
Case Again

PASADENA, Calif., May 7 — Mrs. James Roosevelt has answered her husband's amended divorce complaint, retorting her charges of infidelity and calling him "unfit" to have custody of their three children.

Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt, 38, said in her answer filed yesterday that Roosevelt, 46, has shown "utter disregard of the solemnity of his marriage vows." His "extremely cruel" conduct in recent years, she said, has caused her "great and grievous mental and physical strain and suffering."

She acknowledged possession of some momentos willed to her husband by his late father, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, including one of his famed cigarette holders. But James, she added, still has a $12,500 necklace of hers.

Her answer repeated her charges of misconduct with three women named in her separate maintenance suit as co-respondents and with others whose names are unknown to her. Named are Gladys Irene Owens, 37 June Nelson, "also known as June Jordan," and Elaine Hilton.

These are in addition to nine other women with whom Roosevelt had admitted intimacies in a 1945 letter to his wife. He has since repudiated these admissions and said they were made to forestall a divorce suit that would have increased his father's burdens as president.

Last Friday Superior Judge Kurtz Kauffman granted Roosevelt's motion to change his separate maintenance suit to one for divorce.

Insurance Discuss by Council

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas insurance commissioner has less power than similar officials of most other states to fix rates for fire and related types of insurance.

A committee of the Arkansas Legislative Council was told that today in a report by the Council's research staff, the committee on Corporations, Insurance and Banking is directing a study of insurance rates in Arkansas as compared to other states.

Arkansas law generally follows a model bill recommended by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, said the report. However, one section limits the insurance commissioner to considering only the loss experience period of stock fire companies of the previous five years in adjusting rates.

Under the NAIC bill, not only previous loss experience but prospective loss experience as well could be considered in rate making. So could other factors not now permitted by Arkansas law.

M. J. Harrison, Little Rock lawyer and one-time Arkansas insurance commissioner, told the legislators that the Arkansas Bar Association Insurance Committee is considering proposing the general revision of state insurance laws.

Harrison, who is chairman of the committee, said the suggestion is to propose a revision of the state insurance laws.

Lack Of Confidence
Hurts Business

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's latest job figures indicate today the main trouble with the nation's economy may be a lack of business and consumer confidence in the immediate future.

Business and consumers alike are investing heavily in the long-term future. The booming construction industry is an indication of that. Business is spending heavily on new plants and equipment, consumers are continuing to buy new homes.

But a Labor-Commerce Department survey on April employment showed yesterday that major trouble spots in the economy are the factories, the lines and the transportation field.

This report said April employment was 60,600,000, up nearly half a million from March and that unemployment had dropped from 200,000 from March to an April total of 3,465,000. This conforms to seasonal experience.

However, the number of factory jobs continued to drop last month, with a decrease of 250,000 from March and 1,350,000 below a year ago. Mining employment was 23,000 under March and 100,000 under last year. There was a 15,000 gain in transportation employment in April, but the level still was 20,000 below a year ago.

A top government economist reasons the situation this way:

Consumers, worried about how things will go in the next year or so, are reluctant to take on short-term debts. This affects sales of such things as autos, refrigerators, TV sets and son on.

Manufacturers of such items, noting slackened demand, are keeping stocks low. This is depressing factory activity and jobs.

This in turn has lowered demand for coal, steel and other raw materials, reducing employment in those industries.

Furloughs to Prisoner
Tightened

By CARL BELL

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Extended furloughs from Arkansas penal institutions — which have led to hideous crimes — are a thing of the past.

Furloughs are granted by the governor alone upon recommendations of prison or parole officials.

When he assumed office in January, 1953, Gov. Cherry said he felt that the power of furlough had been abused and that during his administration he would grant none of an extended nature.

Cherry said his policy would be to grant brief furloughs — not to exceed 15 days — only in case of emergency "where comfort to the family can be accomplished without jeopardy to the security of others."

"Emergencies" are situations such as the funeral of a close relative.

The governor recently granted a furlough to a woman slayer who had been in prison only a short time. She was going to have a baby. Afterwards, she was to be returned to prison.

While cracking down on furloughs, Cherry made it clear that he favors the system of rewarding model prisoners with paroles upon completion of a third of their sentence.

Actually, the governor has nothing to say about paroles. They are granted by the State Parole Board. Of course, the board would be inclined to pay attention to the chief executive's wishes.

The conditions for obtaining a parole have been more stringent than those for getting furloughs in years past.

Trouble has resulted from furloughs.

For instance, Tuck Bishop, killer of four men at Springfield, overstayed a Christmas furlough in 1951-52, went to Utah and murdered two more men.

Mrs. Winnie E. Green Freeman, Little Rock murderer, who had been on furlough almost continuously since 1941, was convicted of a California murder last month and is wanted in an Oklahoma slaying.

Though refusing to grant any more of them, Cherry did not disallow the extended furloughs in effect for 63 convicts at the time he took office.

The parole office reports that these furloughs still are in effect and that the holders "are not causing any trouble."

By continuing to go straight, these furloughers may eventually obtain pardons. Their furloughs are no longer counts as time served in prison, and once old.

In This World of Specialized Civilization It's Not What You Know But Who You Know

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a filip saying in this country that "it ain't what you know that counts — it's who you know."

This remark isn't as pertinent as it used to be. Civilization has become so complicated that people with specialized knowledge in any field are becoming more important. The rest of us need them as guides.

There is so much to know in the world today that the buy with the know-it-all complex is as out of touch with reality as a fossil. This is the age of the expert.

But how can the average man seeking information about a topic tell an expert from a bragging bum.

Well, the publishers of "Who's Who in America" have solved this problem. They came out today with a big volume called "Who Knows — and What."

The big Blue Book lists some 18,000 authorities on 33,000 subjects, ranging from the Aardvark to the Zuni Indians. It runs to 907 pages and cost the publishers $200,000 and several years of research.

The publishers are hopeful the volume will prove useful to everybody who has a problem — and that means everybody. The housewife plagued with cockroaches, for example, will find listed three authorities whose advice she can seek on how to get rid of these kitchen intruders.

Anybody annoyed by a prowling Aardvark, however, will have to turn for help to Dr. Glenn L. Jensen of the Princeton Museum of Natural History. He has a monopoly on this African mammal.

Emily Post, the hardy perennial in the field of what fork-to-use-and-when is the sole authority listed on etiquette — and what Amy Vanderbilt will say about that I shudder to think.

The same way with raindrop erosion. Now there's a field you'd think would be crawling with experts, but Walter David Ellison of the U.S. Navy has it all to himself.

On the other hand "Who Knows — and What" names 2 specialists on horseflies, 2 on porpoises, 9 on turtles and 11 on rabbits. It also names 8 authorities on communism — and doesn't include Sen. McCarthy, although it does mention his former aide, J.B. Matthews.

Only a baker's dozen are identified as authorities on sex, and Dr. Kinsey isn't slighted. But some of their approaches to sex don't make for very racy reading. Dr. Bernard Samuel Greenberg, to cite only one, has written on "some effects of testosterone on the sexual pigmentation and other sex characters of the cricket frog."

And of course we all remember his heady study titled, "Some Relations between Territory, Social Hierarchy, and Leadership in the Green Sunfish."

A young girl looking for ways to trap a husband will find slim pickings in "Who Knows — and What." Neither bachelors or hermits are mentioned. Nor are husbands. Presumably the experts in husband-grabbing aren't talking for publication.

As a matter of dismal fact, the vast field of love isn't listed at all. How anybody could list 33,000 separate subjects without mentioning love strikes us as the greatest single feat of pure scholarship in our century.

Only men could leave out women's favorite world.

Piggott Protests Rate Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The city of Piggott and 228 Piggott telephone subscribers today protested a rate increase for Southwestern States Telephone Co.

The protest, filed with the Arkansas Public Service Commission, followed closely that of a group of subscribers at El Dorado who demanded removal of their phones as a result of the rate increase.

Southwestern States has asked for an annual rate boost totaling $143,000. It has put the increase into effect under bond pending approval of the PSC.

The city charged that the company's 1953 profits were more than the double the alleged 3.22 percent net profit admitted.

The subscriber's complaint charged their total annual telephone bill has been increased from about $24,000 to $34,000.

APPOINTED

CHICAGO (AP) — Neal Thayer of Jonesboro, Ark., was named to the Board of Directors of the American Public Power Association here yesterday.

The parole office reports that these furloughs still are in effect and that the holders "are not causing any trouble."

By continuing to go straight, these furloughers may eventually obtain pardons. Their furloughs are no longer counts as time served in prison, and once old.

Democrats
United To Send Labor Bill Back

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an unusual display of solidarity, Senate Democrats apparently have crossed out one of the major items on President Eisenhower's legislative list for this year — revision of the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act.

Southern and Northern Democrats, generally poles apart on labor issues, joined yesterday to send a revision bill back to the Senate Labor Committee, in effect, killing chances for its passage at this session of Congress. The vote was 50-42 and labor leaders hailed the outcome.

Eisenhower asked Congress in a Jan. 11 message to make 14 changes in the 7-year-old law, which he said was basically sound legislation. The bill which the Senate re-committed yesterday would generally carry out the President's labor wishes, although several amendments had been offered that went beyond the Eisenhower recommendations.

Two of these — anti-discrimination proposals by Sens. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) and Ives (R-NY) — figured largely in winning Southern Democratic support for re-committal. The Senate had adopted a parliamentary procedure that foreclosed a Southern filibuster against these anti-discrimination amendments.

Every Democrat was in the Senate chamber yesterday and all 48 voted to re-committ the bill. They were reinforced by Republican Sens. Young and Langer of North Dakota, Malone of Nevada and by independent Sen. Morse of Oregon.

Forty-two Republicans voted against the motion to re-committ.

Two Republicans were absent — Sens. Jenner and Capert of Indiana. After it was apparent the Democrats had won, Sens. McCrank and Ives withdrew their votes and agreed to pair with Jenner and Capert.

A check of the House and Senate record back to 1932 turned up no evidence of previous Democratic unanimity on a labor bill roll call vote.

This is the biggest mess that Washington has ever witnessed.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1952, sent a message predicting that the Republicans will have considerable experience as a minority after November of 1954.

He himself was not at the banquet because of kidney operation.

Truman and Dean Acheson, his secretary of state, were given standing ovations when introduced.

Sen. Johnson said Democrats have opposed Republicans in Congress "in order to save" much of the President's domestic program. Hence he said they became confused when they hear Eisenhower say he needs a Republican Congress to put that program across.

Asserting American foreign policy "has never in all its history suffered such a stunning reversal" as in the past few weeks, he said.

"We have been caught bluffing by our enemies. Our friends and allies are frightened and wondering, as we do, where we are headed. We stand in clear danger of being left naked and alone in a hostile world. Only a few days ago we observed our final humiliation in the spectacle of the American secretary of state backtracking the Atlantic from the conference at Geneva on a subscription basis.

J. E. Belknap, who heads the Poplar Bluff, Mo., firm which received FCC permission to build the relay system, said he didn't understand the objections to the plan by managers of WHBQ-TV and WMCT.

"It will increase their coverage at no extra cost," he said. "This system brings TV to people who have been deprived."

The area lies outside the efficient range of Memphis TV broadcasts. Belknap said his firm would merely act as a "carrier" to beam the signal to a distributor, community antenna systems, in Kenton and Poplar Bluff.

Distributors would charge clients anywhere from $3.50 to $7.50 a month for the service, he added.

H. W. Salvick, general manager of WMCT, and John Cleghorn, general manager of WHBQ-TV, said every legal step would be taken to prevent any sale of the programs.

"This is gross piracy of property rights and we will fight it all the way," Salvick said.

Said Belknap: "They're out of luck as far as we are concerned."

urday, April 24, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. D. Rayfield, in Jackson, Mississippi.

Tall candleabra, holding cathedral tapers and banked with greens, formed a background for the ceremony. The Reverend Walter C. Ranager, pastor of the Spring Ridge Methodist Church, officiated at the impressive service in the presence of relatives and friends from Jackson and other cities.

E. F. Lampkin of Vicksburg, Miss., and Henderson, Ky., served as best man, and Mrs. C. E. Rayfield of Jackson, was matron of honor. Mrs. Rayfield, sister of the bride, wore an aqua dress of tulle over taffeta and carried a bouquet of spring flowers in shades of yellow.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Willard A. George, wore an original wedding dress of diamond white angel wing tulle and chantilly lace. The shirred strapless bodice was concealed with a long sleeved bolero jacket of lace, buttoned with a petal collar. The full tulle waltz length skirt was trimmed in a wide flounce of chantilly lace. She wore a chapel veil of imported silk illusion shirred to a coronet of fluted tulle edged in seed pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white violets and roses on a white prayer book which belonged to her grandmother, the late Mrs. Sallie White George of Terry.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. George chose a dusty rose sprig suit and wore a matching beaver hat. Her corsage was of blue Dutch iris.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Rayfield entertained with a reception. The rooms were decorated with spring flowers. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Paul Thompson and Mrs. E. L. Browne. The bride's table, overlaid with a cloth of imported cutwork and lace, was centered with white blossoms and a three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Margaret Kea served the cake while Mrs. Jodie George poured the punch. Ten girls were Miss Carolyn Davis, Mrs. Robert Garner, Mrs. James McKinney, and Miss Eva Auline Rayfield. Miss Lucille Mabrey presided over the bride's book.

For traveling, the bride changed to a two-piece suit of heavenly blue Italian cotton. After their wedding trip, the couple is at home in Hope, where Mr. Smith is in the hotel business.

Iris Garden Club Meets In Agée Home

The attractive new home of Mrs. Claude Agée was the scene of the May 4th meeting of the Iris Garden Club. Mrs. Lahroy Spates was co-hostess. Lovely arrangements of magnolia blossoms, roses and larkspur added beauty to the living and dining rooms.

The president, Mrs. A. A. Albritton, conducted a brief business session during which officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. A. W. Martin is the incoming president, and Mrs. J. W. Cunningham, vice-president; Mrs. W. I. Stroud and Mrs. J. M. May will serve second terms as secretary and treasurer respectively. The awards won by the Iris club at the recent flower show were presented to the scrapbook chairman.

Mrs. Coy Breeding, program chairman introduced Mrs. R. L. Broach, who gave a most interesting discussion and demonstration on-line arrangements. The thought for the day given by Mrs. Rob Jones was a poem, "All Things Bright and Beautiful," recited from memory of her school days. A May quiz was conducted by Mrs. W. H. Etter, with Mrs. C. P. Tolleson winning the prize.

Mrs. A. A. Halbert placed first in the judging of the crescent arrangements brought by each of the members. Mrs. May won second and Mrs. Owen Nix, third place. Mrs. Broach then judged the winning arrangements.

The secretary reported that Mrs. Nix was the winner of the yearly prize for the highest total score in the arrangement competition.

The hostesses served a tempting dessert plate with coffee to the sixteen members and one guest present.

L. R. Sales Show
35% Increase

ST. LOUIS — Department store sales in the Eighth Federal Reserve District last week showed a mixed pattern ranging from an increase of 35 per cent at Little Rock, Ark., to a decline of 12 per cent in eight of the smaller cities.

For the entire district, sales averaged 1 per cent higher sales than the corresponding period last year.

The St. Louis area reported a 2 per cent increase, but the Memphis, Tenn., area showed a decline of 10 per cent and Louisville, Ky., reported a downturn of 4 per cent.

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis said this was partly a result in the difference of timing in seasonal promotions.

District sales for the four weeks that ended Saturday were up 6 per cent higher and for the year-to-date were running 2 per cent lower than the figures for similar periods last year.

The bank noted consumer buying during the Easter season this year departed somewhat from the normal pattern.

"This year consumer buying peaked in the pre-Easter week instead of the second week preceding the Easter week," the bank said.

"The usual post-Easter lull did not reach the magnitude of prior years."

There are only two species of living elephant: the African and the Indian.

Wool jersey, a fabric that's full of surprises this spring, turns up in daytime dresses and a suit, all by top designers. Balmoral's yarn-dyed gray-mixture wool jersey (left) is slim at front, has low-placed fullness at back. Short sleeve is all-in-one. A black silk band is worked through a pleat effect to create the high empire line. Creamy wool jersey in honeycomb pattern (center) is used by Claire McCordell for sheath dress (center) with straight front and back pleats that release at knee for fishtail effect. Navy blue and white wool jersey jacket (right) with side vent and three-quarter set-in sleeve is worn with straight navy blue skirt. Both jacket and skirt are by Heatherlane.—By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

For Easter Sunday, 1954, furs can be simple or lavish. Fox boa (left) in golden glory, newest fox mutation, is a lustrous golden bronze shot through with silver. This boa was designed for suit wear. Luxurious wrap capelet (center) replaces the traditional fox jacket, is in pale shade of blue fox. A three-tiered capelet, it has skins worked horizontally. Pocket stole (right) also is three-tiered but tapers to points at front for slim effect. All three designs are by Reynard.

Heartless Intentions

Dear Miss Dix: I'm a widow, and in the near future plan to marry a widower with two children, 5 and 6 years old. Since the death of his wife the children have lived with their maternal grandparents to whom they are devoted. However isn't enough, it would be better for you to break the engagement and indefinitely postpone all marital plans.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of though her years may belie the fact. As long as she feels one beau

I hope sincerely that your future husband will not permit you to get away with this cruel science. You have no love or even affection for the children; your only thought is jealous spite. You are willing to sacrifice the welfare of two little children simply because you're jealous of your predecessor's parents!

Doesn't that sound petty and mean? You should be willing and eager to take the little ones so that your husband would have his children with him. But there ought not to be thought of breaking all ties between them and their grandparents. It may take time for me to win their love, but I know I can do it. Is there a sure way to handle this situation satisfactorily?

T. A. Children's Happiness Is Paramount

Answer: My idea of a solution would be for everyone connected with these youngsters to pray frequently and fervently, "God help them!"

Answer: Naomi is certainly being honest with you as far as divulging her restlessness and her manner of assigning it, but it is most unfair of her to continue as your fiancee if she has no intention of bypassing other dates. She was too young to marry at 18 and is still too young to settle down.

President Praises Stand of French

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower said today the heroic defense of Dien Bien Phu "will forever stand as a symbol of the three world's determination to resist totalitarian aggression."

A message from Mr. Eisenhower to French President Rene Coty was delivered by American Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon shortly after word of the besieged French garrison in Indochina reached Washington.
